Read the story below and answer questions 29 to 37.

It was break time at Phatsimo Primary School. Everyone was running about and having fun. Suddenly, the children started shouting. They were in the middle of a very strong wind. The wind was making dust spin around the air. The children ran to hide in the classrooms. As quickly as it had come, the wind moved on. The children looked around the playground, there was rubbish everywhere. This rubbish was composed of bits of paper, plastic, plastic bags, grass and even an old bucket.

One of the teachers called Mrs Maswabi blew a whistle. The children stood still, it was a sign for them to go to the assembly area. Mrs Maswabi announced at the assembly that the playground was dirty and they were to pick up all the rubbish. This was very tiring and some of the children grumbled. “It is not our fault that there is rubbish all over the playground,” said Lesego, one of the pupils as she bent to pick up a piece of paper.

The paper that Lesego picked looked strange. It was small and brightly coloured and it had some writing on it. After all the rubbish was picked up, Lesego’s friends looked at the piece of paper she had found. They decided to take it to their teacher Mrs Maswabi who told them it was a very valuable stamp. The stamp was reported missing from the Post Office.

After lunch, Mrs Maswabi and Lesego took the stamp to the Post Office. They went into an office which was covered with stamps on the wall. They met Mr Morake, who works in the Post Office. He said he was very happy to meet Lesego because she had found a rare stamp. It was a stamp with animal designs.

At school the next day, Lesego was doing her Maths home work when she was called to Mrs Maswabi's office. Mr Morake had come to thank Lesego for finding the stamp. He invited Lesego and her classmates to come to the Post Office and see all the interesting stamps.
